The increased travel through Boylston streat seemed to require that this occasion should be seized to accomplish what has been ardently desired, greatly needed and long deferred.

The Mall, also, in the opinion of the Committee, was an object of great importance, and they were fortified in this opinion, by the general voice of approbation which has followed their decision, as well as by the recorded opinions of the City Authorities in former years.

The cost of the erection of the iron fence on all the sides of the Common, the sixty tombs and the other improvements, including the side-walks on Boylston, Tremont, Park and Beacon streets, the Mall and the widening of Boylston st, logether with some unforeseen charges, have exhausted the appropriation made in September, and rendered necessary a for the choicest qualities—for which the House has been so of the choicest qualities—for which the House has been so of the choicest qualities—for which the House has been so of the choicest qualities—for which the House has been so of the choicest qualities—for which the House has been so of the choicest qualities—for which the House has been so of the choicest qualities—for which the House has been so of the choicest qualities—for which the House has been so of the choicest qualities—for which the House has been so of the choicest qualities—for which the House has been so of the choicest qualities—for which the House has been so of the choicest qualities—for which the House has been so of the choicest qualit a vote of the City Council, passed 11th April, 1836, authority was given to erect an Iron Fence around the Common, on Beacon, Park, Tremont, and a part of Boylston streets, provided the sum of fifeen thousand dollars should be obtained by subscription. This sum was secret, and the work was ed by subscription. This sum was secured, and the work was ed by subscription. This sum was secured, and the work was accordingly done. On the 5th Sept. an order was passed, making a further appropriation for completing the iron fence, and the improvements around the Common, including the Burying Ground. This has also been done. The whole length of the fence around the Common, including the principal entrances and twenty-two openings for foot passengers, is 5930 feet, or one mile and one eighth. In carrying on these improvements, it seemed to be necessary for the public safety and convenience, that Boylston street should be widened; by this means the lence could be continued on the same line this means the fence could be continued on the same line this means the tence could be continued on the same interpretation that street. To allow of this improvement, it was necessary to remove about forty tombs. The Board of Aldermen authorised the erection of six tombs, with a view Aldermen authorised the erection of six tombs, with a view to ascertain the practicability of effecting exchanges. Before these were finished, a number of the owners of tombs in the contemplated line of the fence, consented to exchange. The readiness manifested by these gentlemen, suggested the expediency at this time, of again attempting to carry a Maltthro' the burying ground. Vigorous effects, under different administrations of the City Government, to effect this object, had been made, and had failed, and it was therefore deemed inexpedient to announce this intention publicly, but to carry on the project by private negotiations, among the owners and the project by private negotiations, among the owners and claimants of the tombs.

Another vote of the Board of Aldermen authorised the con-

Another vote of the Board of Aldermen authorised the construction of such a number of tombs as might be necessary.—
To continue the fence on the proper line, widen Boylston st, and carry the Mall around, required that sixty-nine tombs should be surrendered, which has been done. Sixty tombs have been built, for the accommodation of the owners, who were desirous of retaining their rights in this ground. Nine tombs have been wholly given up to the city—the remains having, in some instances, been removed to Moant Auburn.—There are now but four tombs remaining, which it is neces sary to remove to complete the mall, and the owners of all these have consented to make an exchange at the earliest convenient time. The excavating necessary for the new tombs supplied a vast quantity of the best material for filling up Charles street and the malls, and has saved a great expense ment of this whole work. With this sum it is believed every bill may be paid. The private subsciption amounts to more than seventeen thousand dollars—besides a considerable sum towards the cost of an iron fence around the burial ground, and thus exceeds the sum required by the terms of the vote of the City Council. Should the appropriation now suggested be made, the whole expenditure for these improvements, including the sum subscribed by individuals, will amount to $35,000. With these views at is recommended that an order be passed.

For the Boston Morning Post. NOTES OF INDIVIDUALS AS CURRENCY.

One of the most voluminous correspondents of the Post has been laboring to show that all the restrictions upon private banking-that is, upon the emission of the notes of individuals as currency-should be removed. This, it seems to me, is a very dangerous doctrine. There is no probability, however, of its being carried into effect, and therefore it is not, perhaps, necessary to make any formal opposition, at this time, to any such supposed measure. His exposition of Nicholas Biddle and his double dealing and deception, is very good. He has shown him up in some of his proper colors, and exposed his self-contradictions. But with regard to the fundamental ideas of this writer concerning banking, I certainly do not agree with him. They are, in my view, radically unsound. If there were any probability of their being entertained by practical men, they would be highly dangerous.

Governor Marcy, of New York, has touched upon this subject. His views, with regard to banks, and currency, and usury, and money affairs in general appear to me to be sound, and to be treated with great good sense and practical knowledge. I send you an extract from his message, which relates particularly to the subject of permitting the notes of individuals to be issued as currency. It will answer, as a sufficient reply to the correspondent of the Post, to whom I have alluded. Here follows the ex-

"While I am decidedly of opinion that the restraining law ought to be so modified as to permit individuals to re-ceive deposites, make discounts and keep offices for such purposes, I feel bound, by a strong sense of duty, to urge upon you the necessity of retaining that part of it which prohibits the issue of 'notes or other evidences of debt to be loaned or put in circulation as money.' To some extent this clause may perhaps be safely modified, but not so far as to expose the public to the evils of an unsound paper circulating medium. If persons, either in their individual capacity, or associated as partners, are permitted to issue such kind of notes as will be likely to be used in the ordinary transactions of business, the soundness of our currency will inevitably be impaired. In my opinion, no supervision by public authority that can be devised -no regulations short of a prohibition to issue such notes, would constitute a sufficient safeguard against the evils to be apprehended.

The claim to make the paper currency of the country, stands upon a foundation very different from that which asserts the right to use private property in any and all kinds of business transactions. There is a broad distinction between free trade in money, and the unrestricted privilege of making a fictiti us representative of money. If all have the right to use their money in any way they please, they can have no cause to complain that they have not also the liberty to make a substitute for the public use, which would not fail, in some instances at least, to be perverted to the public detriment. If individuals and associations were permitted to enter into rivalry with the banks, in supplying a paper circulation, without being laid under restrictions as effectual to prevent abuses as those now imposed on these institutions, and subjected to a supervision as constant and vigilant as they are, it would be idle, I fear, to hope for an exemption from the evils of an excessive and vitiated currency. The task of devising, for all individuals and associations that might choose to

The restriction imposed by all governments upon the power of coining money, has never been considered the inrasion of a common right. The reasons, which sustain this restriction upon the coinage of the precious metals, apply with equal force to the power of regulating and controlling the issues of paper money which is used as a substitute for a metallic currency. The right and the expediency of exercising a controlling power over both these subjects by the legislature, arise from the necessity of affording general protection against fraud and imposition. If the duty of the government were to be graduated by the evils likely to ensue from a neglect of eit er, the care of sustaining the soundness of a paper currency, would seem to me to be the most imperative. My conclusion on this branch of the restraining law is, that the privilege of issuing a paper circulating medium cannot be claimed as the restoration of a general right which has been unnecessarily witheld by the legislature, and that this power ought not to be confided to all individuals and associations that may desire to have it, because it cannot, in my judgment, be thus given without exposing the public to evils against which it is the duty of the legislature to afford ample and certain protection.'

ROXBURY AND THE LICENSE LAWS.

Mr. Editor .- I think it probable that you and your readers may have been misled by the statements which have appeared in your paper, touching the object, character and proceedings of a late town meeting held in Roxbury in regard to the license laws. Not that the writers of those articles have intended to mislead. But the whole truth needs to be told in order to give a clear understanding of a part thereof. Allow me, then, to tell the whole story.

The late Roxbury town meeting was called at the request, and on the petition of Amos Fisher, (Taverner) and 130 others, who have also felt aggrieved by the refusal of the Norfolk County Commissioners to grant any licenses for the sale of ardent spirits. Two resolutions were adopted by the meeting, by a vote of 185 to 28. The 1st resolution was to petition the Legislature for such an alteration of the license law as will authorise the Selectmen of every town to grant as many licenses as they please, with a right of appeal, in case of their refusing any license, to the Commissioners. The 2d resolution was to instruct the Roxbury Representatives to do all in their power to procure such a modification of the law as is above specified.

Now it is undoubtedly true that much might be said, on both sides, in regard to the right and expediency of petitioning, instructing, or doing anything towards altering the existing law. But I will now confine myself to a brief statement of facts, relating to the propriety of passing the 2d resolution; facts which will show conclusively that the town had no right to pass it, and that the Representatives are not bound by it.

Our Constitution (Bill of Rights, XIX.) secures to the people the general right of instructing their Representatives, and of course binds the Representatives, to obey those instructions, or resign. This general principle is admit-

MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE.

Thursday, Jan. 12 .- A Convention was held to qualify the Councillors, and to receive the Governor's Address. The Address is not of the usual length of similar docu-

Contracy to the general expectation of Governor Everett's political friends, in the Legislature, the Address does not contain any thing definite upon the important topic of the Surplus Revenue; but on the contrary his suggestions in relation to its disposition are partial and vague. The whole amount to be divided among the States is stated to be $37,000,000-of which $1,784,231 will come to Massachusetts. In the following paragraph, Governor Everett appears to be in favor of investing a portion of the Surplus in the Western Rail Road :--

Boston, Nov. 12, 1836. Two months before I applied to Dr Gordak. I was taken with a Cough, attended with a dull head-ache—the cough kept growing worse—a shortness of breath appeared, and I kept losing flesh very fast—in short it was alarming. I applied to Dr Gordak—he gave me two kinds of medicine—the Jelly of Pomegranate, and Pulmonary Jelly—I took the medicine according to his directions, and received immediate relief—in the course of 14 days I was entirely cured.

NELSON F. ROBY.

Boston, Nov. 12, 1836. I was subject to canker in the stomach, throat and mouth about a year since—it troubled me very much—I was recommended to make use of the Jelly of Pomegranate and Pills, prepared by Dr Gordak. I used the medicine with astonishing success—in five or six days I was entirely cured, and ever since have been free of canker. I really think there is no medicine for canker equal to the Jelly Pomegranate.
